

Terms and Conditions Digital Selection

The digital selection will be held in a secured platform, called ProctorExam.

- I have decided to participate in the Digital selection online.
- I hereby give permission to make and view both video-recordings and screenshots. These recordings and images will be retained during the entire selection and placement procedure. An employee of the company ProctorExam as well as staff of the Faculty of Geosciences and Utrecht University involved in the selection procedure may be provided with the data to assess whether I have taken the test in accordance with the regulations. If there is any suspicion of fraud, the data may also be submitted to an Appeals Board. After the selection and placement procedure has been completed, all data will be destroyed.

The collection and temporary storage of the data mentioned above is necessary for identification purposes and for monitoring that the online testing has taken place in a fair way.

Conditions

- Online participation in the selection is at your own risk. If, for whatever reason, the testing cannot take place, then neither the study programme nor the Faculty may be held responsible.
- You yourself are responsible for meeting any requirements for online participation, including technical requirements such as having a computer with a good and stable internet connection. Relevant information about these requirements (including technical requirements) can be found on <https://proctorexam.com/exam-rules>.
