Multilingual reflection and linguistic diversity are important aspects of the programme. This means monolingual students will not be admitted in this Master, but in your application you are permitted to select other languages than those of the language specific tracks, such as Turkish, Moroccan, Hungarian or Chinese.

How can you document your language proficiencies with tests or certificates?

If you are applying for the multilingual track, you can support your application by sending in documents that buttress your language proficiency in the languages you would like to study.

Your native language, in which you have completed your pre-university education, needs no further documentation!
