

Utrecht Lectures in Political History

Where are the faces and experiences of victims of recent episodes of mass violence? How can we render their experiences visible and include them in historical accounts of conflict, violence and genocide? Come find out more and join us in the public lecture by a leading scholar, prof. dr. Natalia Aleksiu, jointly organized by the Political History Section of Utrecht University's Department of History and Art History and the NIOD Institute for War, Holocaust and Genocide Studies.

Mass Violence and Victim Agency: Rescue Strategies of Jewish Physicians in Nazi Occupied Poland

Natalia Aleksiu
Harry Rich Professor Holocaust
Studies, University of Florida

Tuesday 14 November 2023
4:00 PM – 6:00 PM
Drift 21, room 1.05

Please register your attendance with Boris
Wesseldijk (b.j.z.wesseldijk@uu.nl) by 10
November 2023, 5:00 PM CET

*Upcoming lectures
Spring 2024*

May 2024

Natasha Wheatly (Princeton University)
Date, time and location to be announced

Stephan Malinowski (University of Edinburgh)
Date, time and location to be announced